All reports from the mainland go to show that McKinley's election is assured.

Mr. L. B. Kerr, the well known merchant of this city, who returned yesterday on the Queen, says everywhere the evidence of prosperity are to be seen and the people propose to continue them by re-electing McKinley and continuing a republican administration.

"All this talk of prosperity of the country under McKinley is nonsense," shout the democratic orators. It must be when three of the leading railroads of the south which have terminal at No-folk, Virginia, can put on a large line of steamers for European ports to carry the products of the country tributary to the railroads, and which vessels after crossing the Atlantic for Europe loaded with exports will return generally in ballast. It is not many years since the return trips in ballast were the other way.

States the buyer.

L. B. KERR PREDICTS

McKINLEY'S ELECTION

SAYS THE MAINLAND IS EX-CEEDINGLY PROSPEROUS
AND CONTENTED.

All Factories and Mills Working

Overtime—Tremendous Success of Republican Meetings

Everywhere.

"The sentiment towards McKinley and a continuance of the reign of prosperity is almost universal throughout the business and industrial centers of the middle and eastern states of the mainland," said

L. B. Kerr, the well known wholesale and retail merchant, yesterday, upon his return to Honolulu after nearly a three months' purchasing trip to the States.

Mr. Kerr expressed himself as being pleased to again enjoy the many delights of the well high perfect island climate after a sojourn in temperatures of varying degrees of heat.

During his absence the merchant visited the large manufacturing cities of the east and middle west. Chicago, New York, St. Louis, Baltimore and Philadelphia and many other markets were included in the trip and in each Mr.

Kerr found a very prosperous condition of affairs.

"Factories and mills are running overtime in order to keep pace with the demands for their products," said Mr.

Kerr. "Manufacturers in all these places reported an almost unprecedented demand for their goods this season."

While away Mr. Kerr was enabled to gather in several big bargains in making his extensive purchases. The tendency this season with the majority of eastern manufacturers is to dispose of the retailer and jobber their wares at small margins, and in consequence are keeping a tremendous amount of product moving through business channels.

"In a political way, things were sizzling on the mainland," he said.

"Throughout the manufacturing sections of the east the tide towards McKinley and Roosevelt has not been stemmed, and the report that the republicans are displaying apathy in the coming campaign is evidently misleading."

On his way homeward and westward the Honolulu business man noticed equally as much interest in matters political as in the east. Even through the old line silver states of Colorado and Utah the prosperity sentiment has a firm hold on the people and evidences of this state of affairs were to be seen on every hand.

Mr. Kerr remained in San Francisco but a day preparatory to taking passage on the steamer Queen. He referred to his trip over on the former Alaska excursion steamer as a most pleasant one. In some respects the service was far ahead of the deposed Australia. While away Mr.

Kerr was closely questioned regarding the possibilities to be found on these islands by business men and investors who are keeping a watchful eye out for commercial advantages to be found here.

Since annexation the islands have awakened much interest in business circles throughout the mainland.
